IN STIFF FIGHT
ON REFERENDUM

Claims of Wet Forces of Victory in Primary Stir New Contest

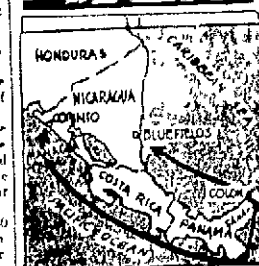

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—Following the claims of the wet forces in Missouri of having won a great victory in nominating both Deussen and the publican candidate for the United States Senate who were opposed by the dry forces, the wet forces will concentrate their efforts in opposing the prohibition amendment in the November election.

The wet forces accepted the campaign of the 1928 has been announced in the calling of a meeting at Jefferson City for the purpose of opposing the state dry law proposal.

The call is made by a state-wide committee styled as the "Committee to Oppose the Prohibition Amendment" and of others opposed to the proposed repeal of the prohibition amendment in which it desired the more to suppress the state to suppress the prohibition amendment and their supporters in the state.

Appended to the call is a list of 250 names which includes Governor Samuel A. H. H. and three former governors of Missouri—Arthur M. Hyde, Elliott W. Major and A. M. D. D. The committee's statement attacks the repeal movement bitterly, terming it an indirect attack on the constitution of the United States by withdrawal of the state's support from the enforcement of prohibition.

The meeting and statement is expected to draw the fire from the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment which was active in the recent Missouri primary.

Regarding the City's Finances.

It is our guess that City Auditor Landes' lot, just at present, is not wholly a happy one. He may deny it, of course, and others may deny it, but we have a suspicion that the city auditor is being made the recipient of many a dark look. We would not have it understood that the auditor has been guilty of wrong-doing. Far from it. All he did was to divulge the condition of the city's finances. He figured it out that the city was in rather good shape in a financial way and, believing that such would be pleasing news to the citizens of Marion, he divulged the fact.

A few days ago the auditor announced that the city's finances were in the best shape they had been in for years; that they were in such condition, in fact, that the city proposed to pay off at once something like $20,000 loaned to it by certain local industries and citizens to maintain the fire and police departments at a time when it was suffering from financial stringency, and that, despite such proposed payments, the close of the fiscal year, December 31, would find comfortable balances in all the city's funds. And thereby, the auditor, to use a homely expression, spilled the beans.

The auditor, it may be well to say, attributed this fine showing to the occupational tax of two years ago "which brought $50,000 into the city treasury" and the "practice of the utmost economy by city officials." Although the auditor made no mention of the fact, there is a possibility that increased valuations placed on properties in the business sections of the city may have had their influence in bringing about the pleasing situation which obtains.

The statement of Auditor Landes regarding the condition of the city's finances has gone uncontroverted. In fact, it is admitted that the situation is as he puts it. But can the reader picture anything which would appear much more unfortunate from certain viewpoints than such a showing at a time when there is on file in the county auditor's office a city budget, awaiting the action of the budget commission, asking for $127,000 more for the running of the city in 1927 than was granted the city government the present year? It's a bit but we would call an out-and-out case of hard luck.

The Overthrow of the Fergusons.

The Democratic primary in Texas means the election of the present incumbent, Governor James B. Ferguson, to the governorship of the Lone Star state. The result of the second primary was a brilliant victory for the leader in the first and an overwhelming defeat for Mrs. Ferguson. The tabulated returns show a vote of 155,325 for the former and 121,452 for the latter. Under all the circumstances, such a verdict is a well-deserved political rebuke of the Ferguson influence for all time.

Jim Ferguson was elected governor of Texas in 1914, re-elected in 1916 and impeached in 1917. He was defeated for governor in 1918 and defeated for president in 1920, when he ran as the candidate of the American party. Two years later he was defeated for United States senator and in 1924 for the senate against the Hon. Kluge Klan which resulted in the election of Mrs. Ferguson, who ran, as she thought, the campaign blind out, in violation of her husband's will. Just why the people of Texas should elect to the governorship the wife of the man they had impeached as governor a few years before is one of the mysteries as yet unsolved.

What Mrs. Ferguson might have been as governor had she been freed from the influence of her husband can only be surmised. What she was under the influence of her husband was little better than a puppet of women he pulled the strings. Her husband's losses of penitentiary prisoners and many other acts brought discredit upon her administration and yet, such was the Ferguson influence, that a coalition of the voters who cast their ballots—almost a quarter of a million—voted to prolong the "inflation" which brought such discredit to their state.

Perhaps the most unfortunate result of the election of Mrs. Ferguson, two years ago, was the harm it worked to women in a political way. Mrs. Ferguson was not honest in keeping her pledge to the voters that she, and she alone, if elected, would be governor. Certainly she was not honest in her promise that she would resign if Moody led her by a vote in the first primary this year. Her husband says she is a good sport, but her failure to keep her promise in this regard shows to the contrary. Her administration is bound to come to the mind of voters when next some woman becomes a candidate for some high office. Such is the nature of mankind, that the voter will overlook the admirable administration of Mrs. Nellie Ross, as governor of Wyoming, and think only of the one-time woman governor of Texas. A few months more, and the people of Texas will be rid of this woman governor, but the harm she has done to her sex in a political way will linger for years.

Vagrant Verse.

YOU WHO WALK.

A vague voice whispers
Somewhere, deep within,
"He will not come again!"
He will not come again!

But never heed it,
You who wait for him!
Say rather to yourself
The brave things
That waiting women
Have told the world
Have told their hearts—
To comfort them; such things
As wondering why they should have said
And dark, devoted things.
When the sea,
Engendered, took back its gulf again.

Say that today
He is detained from you.
Say that tomorrow
He will surely come.
Rejoice how tender
He was—yesterday!

Repeat, repeat
The brave young things,
Adieu, goodbye!
We'll be back in your hair;
And round your lips
He'll not and not that pale.
I am to you his
And here's a golden word:
The while you wait—
But never heed
The voice of a woman,
"He will not come again!"
He will not come again!

TO BOB OR NOT TO BOB, THAT IS THE QUESTION.

Avoid Recurrence of Tuberculosis.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

An Ohio boy, veteran of the late war, has written me about himself. He contracted tuberculosis in France and, he says, has been "chasing the cure" for nearly six years. Now he is recorded as an "arrested case."

Naturally, this brave soldier, who gladly offered all he had for his country, is anxious to know how to prevent a recurrence of the disease. He wants to perform all his duties as a useful citizen and realize it is impossible to do so unless he "stays cured."

It must be admitted at once that cure must be complete, or there may be a recurrence of the ailment. This is not so much because of the presence of latent germs in the system, as it is that some persons have a peculiar tendency to tuberculosis.

Each of us is likely to possess a degree of latent resistance to one or another germ. On this account, resistance to one or another disease may be lying in wait. But it isn't necessary to order the life in disease. What is necessary is to order the life in such manner as to leave no avenue of entrance for the germ.

In a sense, almost everybody is an "arrested case" of tuberculosis. In one form or another almost without exception each of us has had some more or less active involvement with this disease. Does this strike you?

Some years ago a famous pathologist became interested in the subject we are discussing. He made a careful examination in 920 consecutive post-mortem examinations in 1817 instances found evidence of active or latent tuberculosis. Mind you—these were not examinations into the cause of death from tuberculosis, but were the results of post-mortem examinations when death had occurred from all causes.

This means that but three of these persons had had tuberculosis at some time or other. I speak of this, not to alarm other readers, but to reassure the soldier boy. He is an "arrested case," just as most of us are arrested cases. He can live his life and reach his normal expectancy, just as the rest of us can.

Fresh air, deep breathing, moderate daily exercise, proper eating of good food, plenty of sleep, avoidance of excessive fatigue and undue exposure, and happiness and contentment of mind—in these you have the secret of maintaining an "arrested case." In these you have the secret of long life even though you never had tuberculosis.

Overwork, overworry, unhappiness, irregular meals, exposure to wet and cold—these are almost sure to bring a recurrence, or, if you have never had the disease, to lay a foundation for it.

My dear Mr. Soldier Boy, so four way, live as you should and forget that you ever had tuberculosis. Clean thoughts, clean living, and good food, plus sunshine and out-of-door life will permit you to live till you are eighty-nine. Is that long enough?

Students of the human being, his intelligence and his environment, will be interested in the story of Mrs. M. N. Ginsberg, three years ago. Mrs. Ginsberg is a Chicago widow whose three sons work their way through college and support their mother at the same time. Here is the story from the Chicago Tribune.

If a little learning is a dangerous thing, then the home of Mrs. M. N. Ginsberg, 1745 Ingleside avenue, is just about the safest place on earth for a young man.

For three of Mrs. Ginsberg's sons all attend at the University of Chicago, have been bringing home abundant academic honors from the Midway.

For a mother talked up the list. It reads like this:

First, twenty-three, who will be graduated in the coming year, will be graduated in the coming year, and was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honor society.

Second, twenty-two, a junior, was recently awarded the gold Phi Beta Kappa key in a third year, as a special recognition of his scholarship. He is a pre-medical student and plans to take a degree in surgery at the University's medical school.

Third, twenty-one, at the end of his freshman year of college work, was informed that he had been elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa. To him, the honor was a great surprise.

What is the secret?

Bobby Jones, general manager, knows there are other things to do in the world besides play golf. Giving up business, he has decided to go back to school. He will study law, and then he will go on to the bar.

Save Your Teeth!
STOP PYORRHEA
Tender, sore or bleeding gums or gums inflamed or receding from the teeth indicate DEADLY PYORRHEA—the teeth's worst enemy. The disease first attacks the gums, later the tooth structure. As the gums recede from the teeth pus pockets are formed in which toxic poison develops to be absorbed by the system and become the possible source of other dangerous diseases. Don't let pyorrhea endanger your health. The ravages of this terrible disease can be stopped, the gums healed and the poison the system has been absorbing checked, by the use of VINCET'S PYORRHEA TREATMENT. Camel—the greatest tobacco word of all time

NEVER in the history of smoking has there been such a cigarette as Camel. No other cigarette was ever made welcome in so many millions of homes, because no other ever brought so much enjoyment to smokers.

When Camels came into the world they brought an entirely new sense of smoking satisfaction and contentment. Millions who have tried them all, who could well afford to pay more, will smoke only Camels. Camels on the table mean that this is the home of experienced smokers.

Camel is the world's favorite cigarette. Camel is given a greater patronage than any other cigarette ever had. Why? Because Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown. Because Camels never tire the taste, no matter how liberally you smoke them. Because they never leave a cigarette after-taste. The world's largest tobacco organization puts the utmost quality into this one cigarette.

If you want the mellowest mildness that ever came from a cigarette, try Camels. Regardless of what you are willing to pay, you will find in this famous smoke every fine feature you ever looked for in a cigarette.

Have a Camel!
